PRIVILEGES OF THE UNION FOR THE SOLDIERS

Resolution Passed at Informal Meeting Held in the Union.

ONLY 25 WERE PRESENT

Cordial Welcome Extended to Members of Fourth Overseas Co.

RESOLVED, that this meeting hereby ratify the action of the Union House Committee and Advisory Committee in extending to the members of the Fourth Universities Company those privileges connected with the Union which they now enjoy.

That we extend to the members of the Fourth Universities Company a cordial welcome to the building, and do hereby assure them of our most warm-hearted friendship and support.

That we are desirous of correcting any misinterpretation placed on earlier deliberations indicating an unfriendly attitude on the part of the Union towards the Overseas Company. That this resolution be communicated to the members of the Overseas Company together with our best wishes for their present and future welfare.

The above is the text of a resolution passed at an informal meeting of the Union members held in the lounge room of the Union yesterday afternoon. Through inability to secure the required quorum of 100 members, the general meeting of the Union, which had been called, was not proceeded with, and the informal meeting took its place. G. M. Willisroft, president of the Union, who presided over the meeting, which was attended by some 25 members, opened the meeting by calling attention to the matter in hand—the granting of the privileges of the Union to the members of the Fourth Universities Company. He reviewed the action taken by both the advisory board and the Union house committee in regard to the granting of the Union to the successive Universities Companies, and invited discussion on the subject. Mr. Willisroft pointed out that the Government grant does not cover the expenses of these companies, each of which costs the graduates of this university in the neighborhood of $1,000. The granting of the Union to the companies was quite useful in stimulating recruiting, as this fact is fully advertised by the men in training here. Should the students turn against the action of the committee, it would be "quite a black eye" to the college. Mr. Willisroft also stated that no influence had been brought to bear by the advisory board on the house committee of students. The privileges of the Union had been granted to the Fourth Company by the advisory board in the absence of the house committee from college, the approval of the latter being afterwards secured.

Mr. Miller Speaks.

W. H. Miller, Med. '16, who spoke at the annual meeting of the Students' Society on the subject, stated that since that occasion he felt that unfair criticism had been directed against him. He had explained that he was not knocking, but it was the principle of the thing to which he was opposed, referring to the fact that the approval of the members of the Union as a body was not secured in this exceptional case. He thought that if this had been done, the student body as a whole would have been tickled to death to extend the full privileges of the Union to the soldiers. He believed that this course of action should have been pursued. Mr. Miller stated that he had heard "on pretty good authority" that a member of the advisory committee had declared that "the students have got to do this or we will make them," or words to that effect. He thought that the matter should have been brought to the attention of the students in some prominent way, and gave it as his opinion that the poor attendance at the meeting then in progress was due to lack of advertisement. He thought that the house committee should have told the students what it had done. Mr. Miller, in conclusion, reiterated that he was speaking only in behalf of principle, and had every sympathy with the soldiers. He stated that he expected to go overseas on the completion of his course in medicine.

The House Committee.

Mr. Willisroft explained that the house committee had failed to notify the students or to call a meeting with regard to the matter, because they had thought it hopeless to get a large enough attendance. The constitution of the Union will be thoroughly revised this year, he added. He referred to his letter in the McGill Daily of October 22 as his position in the matter. The action of the house committee had been quite constitutional. In reply to A. M. McCrimmon, he replied that the advisory board was primarily to exert a check on the expenditure of the Union. It has also power, he said, to reject any resolutions and refer them back to the committee which passed them. Messrs. G. M. Pitts, L. H. Nichols and F. B. Common also took part in

CONVERSAT AT THE Y.M.C.A. HUGE SUCCESS

The Freshmen and the R. V. C. Girls Have a Most Enjoyable Evening.

LARGE NUMBER PRESENT

Hall Prettily Decorated—Conversat This Year Took Form of Hallowe'en Party.

Strathcona Hall was the scene of a very pleasant gathering last night, when the freshmen from the different faculties were entertained at a conversat given by the Y. M. C. A., assisted by the Y. W. C. A., and ladies of R. V. C. The common room of the building was very prettily decorated with Hallowe'en symbols, and large yellow pumpkins gleamed from the different corners. The evening started with a general mix-up of freshmen, who were trying to fill their programmes with the names of fair co-eds. Two new innovations were added to the usual programme, consisting of a promenade by those present, and a very fine selection by the freshman orchestra. A solo was also sung by one of the first-year men. The attendance was very large, about 250 being present, all of whom agreed that they had spent a very profitable and agreeable evening. The reading and lounge rooms were very popular for sitting-out purposes, and the chairs and couches were all occupied most of the time. This function is one of the best held around college as it presents a fine chance for the boys to meet their fair sisters in co-education. The evening was concluded with the serving of light refreshments, which was followed by the singing of "God Save the King," "Good Night Ladies" and the "McGill Yell."

The patronesses were Miss Hurlbatt, Miss Cameron and Miss Coster. The Committee from R. V. C. consisted of Miss Walhaupner, Miss Ford, Miss Holland, Miss Henry, Miss Wyatt, Miss Currey, Miss Spier, Miss Price, Miss Abbott.

Committee from the Hall was Messrs. Nichols, Beckwith, Church, Derrer, Goodrich, Heslam.

R.V.C. RED CROSS

The efforts of the R.V.C. students to raise funds for the Red Cross yesterday on the University grounds were most successful. The exact amount of money received will not be known until to-day, but it is expected that the sum obtained will fully come up to the expectations of the committee.

A very generous response was received from the student body, and the R.V.C. wish to take this opportunity for thanking the men for their loyal and patriotic support. In addition to the smaller collections, members of the faculty sent in liberal cheques to support the cause, among those contributing being the following: Sir William and Lady Peterson, Dean Moyse, Dean Lee and Miss Hurlbatt.

EASTER TERM TO BE SHORTENED.

The English department of the Faculty of Arts at Toronto has announced that a portion of the year's work in English would not be required by the students at the annual examination. This seems to indicate that the Easter Term will be again shortened. In all probability the annual examinations will take place in April instead of May and thus the term work of all courses will be reduced.

The discussion. The matter was finally closed with the passing of the resolution already referred to, moved by F. B. Common and seconded by L. H. Nichols.

Mr. Pitts at the close of the meeting introduced the question of gaining more popularity for the Union at the hands of the student body. The root of the evil he found in the dining room which, he said, was not in all its details what it should be for a club of this kind. Damage had been done to the building, and of course more would be done. Mr. Pitts wanted to know who would stand for this. Mr. Willisroft replied that a verbal agreement had been made, by means of which this would be attended to.

DR. WOODSWORTH GIVES LECTURE ON IMMIGRATION

Second of the Series Entitled, "Maintaining Canadian Standards," Delivered Yesterday.

A NATIONAL PROCESS

Lecturer Used Large Charts to Illustrate and Sum Up Pith of His Remarks.

In an illuminating address on "Maintaining Canadian Standards," Dr. Woodsworth continued his fine series of lectures on the subject of immigration to Canada. This is a national process which is becoming more and more important in its effects and ever demands in a most pressing degree the undivided attention of legislators and the governing body of the country.

To make comprehension easier and more vivid, the lecturer had a set of large charts which pictured and summed the pith of his remarks. Mr. Woodsworth briefly ran over the salient points of his previous lectures, recalling the immigration figures into Canada. With one chart he contrasted the immigration statistics in the U. S. A. during the past with the same question in Canada, reaching the conclusion that while the States had had to face the question of immigration with an immense population, which had no difficulty in distributing the immigrants throughout the country, Canada had a far greater problem in her immigrants, because Canada was flooded with foreigners and had only an extremely small population with which to absorb it.

The question to-day is how to maintain a high Canadian standard with this incoming flood of very dubious population. In discussing it three things have to be considered—the continually changing atmosphere and condition in Canada; the lack of dependable statistics; and the development of several new social elements in our society.

The economic effects of immigration constitute the first part of the subject. Before the year 1896 or thereabouts, Canada was in a state of national stagnation; this was followed by an amazing period of rapid expansion, which continued to some two years ago. During that time there came about an immense crowd of immigrants to meet the demand for more laborers and workmen; also the amount of machinery built was much as was necessary to cope with three times our output. These facts meant debt, and Canada had to borrow till her borrowing power was exhausted and we had a time of acute depression. Dr. Woodsworth here made a most pertinent reference to the common conception that the war has brought about all Canada's recent financial sinking, showing that the war, in taking away many of our unemployed and raising the price of wheat, has in reality saved the situation for Canada.

Another chart that Dr. Woodsworth showed was one of a family budget compiled by himself from Winnipeg. This showed that an average price for a family to spend and live in decent comfort on was $1,000, while the utmost that an ordinary workman could earn was between $350 and $600 per annum. The result of this discrepancy was to make the people live in terrible homes, jammed together and thoroughly wretched. Also the majority of men over the women amongst aliens is appalling and in itself tends to immorality.

All these conditions lead to a lowering of Canadian standards, and while there are some saving features, such as the outlet to the farms and the leakage to the U. S. A., still Canada has a large and gloomy problem to face before she is able to accommodate the immigrant influx without danger to herself.

Canada owes herself the duty of self-protection, and that is of paramount importance in dealing with foreign immigrants. The laws for testing and repelling mentally and physically defective individuals are totally inadequate, and are apt to let our country in for much serious trouble.

The next lecture Dr. Woodsworth proposes to tackle this question from the standpoint of the emigrant. Last night he was speaking as a Canadian. This course of lectures deserves hearty support, as being an innovation in McGill and as being a most instructive and enlightening series for students.

S. P. S. MEN ARE HUFFY.

For a long time secret grievances have been nursed in the breasts of the School of Science students at Toronto, and for this reason it was not surprising when they assembled recently to hold an informal indignation meeting to find out their true situation. Their greatest indignation is aroused against the Arts students. The Arts men virtually control the college paper, the Varsity, and it was pointed out that there was no school news to be found in the last edition of this journal. Besides this, the school representative on the paper was informed last spring that he would be notified when his services were required, and that notification has not been received yet.

What About It?

A resolution clothed in conventional and traditionally correct language, has a wonderfully soothing and calming effect on demagogic individuals who, in spite of their revolutionary utterances, are, delightfully pliant and accommodating when authority sounds her note.

If the members of this species are not too perverse, they will doubtless make no exception to this rule, following the resolution passed yesterday at an informal meeting of several members of the Union regarding the use of that building by the Overseas Universities Companies.

In that resolution the warmest welcome has been given to the soldiers and the Union has thrown open its doors as widely as it can. While, the members of the Union on the whole are willing to put up with certain inconveniences; there is another side to the question. Why? says every one, should the student have to put up with many of them. Easier access to the Union at night for example, can surely be arranged. Then again, as far as can be ascertained, there is no stated certainty that full return will be made to the College for damage done to the Union by the occupation of the men. It is the old story of its being "The principle of the thing." Theoretically, the students are as generous as may be, but they hate to have their pockets picked, be the pickpocket never so miserable or needy.

Value of Debate in Education

At the first national university extension conference just held at Madison, Wis., Professor Lyman of the University of Chicago, sensibly argued for use of the extension movement as a means of restoring debate to its proper place in the education of youth, and, he might have added, of society at large. The lad who goes through college taking lecture notes, working up theses in libraries and never coming to close grips either with his subjects or with men in the throes of forensic controversy, has had a defective education. In this respect the old-fashioned American college, with its rival literary and debating societies and its courses of instruction in logic, was far better qualified to send forth thinkers, orators and legislative debaters than is the university of to-day.

The power to argue a case, to defend a thesis, to champion an ideal when one is not immediately and summarily challenged, is of a lower sort than the ability to meet immediate attack with facts, rebutting arguments and reaffirmed aspirations and beliefs. Both for speaker and for audience it is far easier to lecture and to be lectured to than it is to teach or be taught by the Socratic or any other dialogue method. But who can doubt the superior results of the give-and-take process? Admirable as is much of the propaganda and educational service of lyceums, bureaus and university extension courses, it cannot wholly supplant older and longer tested forms of education and intellectual discipline. Some audiences, by the constancy of their loyalty to the clubs that specialize in "talks," are in danger of becoming, as it were, "spoon-fed." Genuine debate, occasionally interjected into the proceedings of such bodies, whether spontaneous or planned for, would preserve and conserve a higher grade of mentality. An occasional bone of controversy sharpens the teeth of the intellect. Most subjects have many sides to them. Most public personages can be interpreted from various angles. A debate meets this condition better than a "talk."

Editorial Notes

Thank Heavens, McGill students at the front do not have to receive second hand copies of their college newspaper as is the case with University of Toronto representatives in Flanders. At the latter institution students husband their old newspapers in order to send them to the front; at McGill, through the foresight of the Students' Council, copies of the McGill Daily are sent free to undergraduates on active service.

McGill students are reported to have done very well in their efforts in behalf of the Red Cross yesterday, but it will be necessary for them to dig down in their pockets a great deal deeper if they are to equal the record of the University of Toronto. In one day last week the Toronto students subscribed the sum of $3,542.65 to the Red Cross, which added to a contribution from the Faculties made a total of $6,542.05. Estimating the attendance at the U. of T. as 1,800, it is a comparatively easy matter to figure out what McGill's contribution should be on the same basis.

QUIPS

—By T. J. K.

Good morning! Remember a freshman is not necessarily a fresh man.

This Means You.

A little kiss,
A little miss,
A little matrimony,
A little fuss,
A little alimony.

When a girl pins a flower on a man's coat, she always tilts up her chin and looks at it sideways, and the man who doesn't tumble is slow enough to be run over by a harse.

First-year Student (on getting into the third-year electrical laboratory): "Is this the first-year carpenter shop?" (Inquest unnecessary.)

A freshe went into a bookstore and said: "I want a Virgil trot." Bookseller—"They're out of stock just now, but I've Vernon Castle's 'Modern Dancing'." (John, call a taxi.)

THE MYSTERY OF THE DAILY OFFICE.

A Chronicle of Shomlock Shomes.

Shomes had just taken a quart of cocaine and was in a talkative mood. "Alas!" he said; but just then the door-bell rang and a minute later a heavy step was heard ascending the stairs. The door opened and a man entered who had a couple of McGill Dailys in his pocket, a class pin on his coat, and he carried a cane in his hand. Taking the chair Shomes shoved to him, the man sat down. A big black mask covered his head with the exception of his left ear. He wore gloves, had a black moustache and whiskers.

Shomes said: "Ah, my friend, what is wrong at McGill now that you seek my aid?" The stranger was visibly startled. "I don't come from McGill," he said. "Ah!" returned Shomes. "I can tell that you are a member of the class '25 in the faculty of Plim Plam. You are probably a soph, and you follow college affairs closely."

"How do you know that? It's marvelous—prodigious—astounding!" "Very simple. Your class pin gives me your scholastic standing; the cane and wrist watch declare you to be a soph; the Dailys in your pocket have been read, hence you follow college affairs closely."

"Cursed be disguises!" said the stranger, and tore off the mask. "It is about The Daily I have come. The students have noticed for the past few days a marked change in the matter entering into the columns of the paper. Read that," handing over a paper to Shomes.

Shomes read aloud: "The mayor had just returned from Ottawa where he had interviewed Sir Sam Hughes to ascertain the status of the Curtiss Aviation School. Mr. Church is staying at the Ritz-Carlton, and he intends remaining in the city for a few days." "Ahem!" said Shomes, "that is a very weighty article."

"And that is just the trouble," broke in the soph. "The Daily has always been a bright, newsy paper. Now it has articles that are too heavy for the average reader's consumption, and we want to know the cause so that we can remedy it. As for money—we are willing to spend any sum—50 cents or even $1—to unearth the mystery." "Well, I shall see what I can do. Come back the day after to-morrow."

The day after to-morrow came. Shomes wore a satisfied smile. I knew the mystery would be solved. What vile plot was to be unearthed?

"I went up to the office of The Daily," began Shomes, "and applied as a volunteer reporter. I was given pencil and paper and told to write up a story. However, I kept my eyes on the door and watched every one coming in or going out. I measured, when no one was looking, the distance from the telephone to the door, the length of my desk, and the number of steps between the typewriter and the wastebasket. I ransacked the paperbasket, but no evidence was forthcoming. I was almost giving up in despair when the mystery was solved. Look over these two papers and see if you can tell me the reason for the appearance of the heavy and weighty articles that have been gracing the columns of your college paper."

The two pieces of paper were clipped from the top of the editorial page and contained the names of the staff. One was from a Daily of two weeks ago, the other from a copy of the latest issue.

"I see nothing here to indicate why such articles should be in The Daily," said the soph.

"You poor boob!" said Shomes. "The reason for the weighty matter which has made its appearance in The Daily within the past two weeks is because 'FAT' ALLEN has joined the staff. Watsane, pass me the hypodermic, please."

There are more things in a college course than are mentioned in the letters home. What do you think, Ignatius?

A junior and a soph. met in the Union.

Soph—"Why have you left off carrying a cane?"

Junior—"Well, it took too much of my time, dear old boy. It distracted my attention from my watch."

The Railway Club is going to the Frontenac Brewery this afternoon, which prompts us to remark that they will have a corking time. That reminds us of some other times we've had, such as:

A peach of a time in the orchard.
A fine time in the courts.
A poor time in the alms house.
A merry time at the wedding.
A great time about the hearth.
A good time at the church.
A dear time at the ten-cent store.
A capital time at Ottawa.
A lovely time in the parlor.
A hot time with the radiator.
A lively time with the spirits.

(From an Exchange.)

"Freshe rushes will probably be abolished by the University of Illinois. Recent deaths from these affairs is partly the cause."

Why worry about little things like that?

FRESHMAN GRAMMAR.

Am she gone and are she went.
Have she left me all alone?
Can me never go to she?
Can her never come to me?
It cannot was.

Many reports have come to the office all to the same effect, namely, that two sophs have been observed every evening for the past month or so walking up and down St. Catherine street. This in itself is nothing to get excited over, but the aforesaid sophs are attired in flashy ties, loud clothes, dinky lids, moustaches, carrying canes and displaying much cheap jewellery, including wrist watches! The vigilance committee may secure their names upon application to the office.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE side of the paper ONLY.

No communications will be admitted to this column without the name of the writer being attached FOR PUBLICATION.

Student Apathy.

To the Editor of The Daily:
Dear Sir,—It might (?) interest the student body in general to know that the meeting of the Union called for Friday at 5.15 was run off as per schedule. Of course this is a matter of some doubt.

People who do not take an interest in their own affairs sometimes suddenly find they have no affairs.
Such apathy on the part of what is called the student body gives a good excuse for taking the management of business, which vitally concerns them, out of their hands. This, my apathetic readers, you and your fellow-students richly deserve.

A few spasmodic college yells at a football match, or some other form of public demonstration, at protracted intervals, does not fulfil your obligations to your class mates or yourself. This seeming inability to think consecutively, to act unanimously and with purpose, will result, or rather is resulting, in the crumbling of an organization which men of more spirit have built up before you. It was an organization of which McGill students were proud. It was their opportunity, the emancipation.

If the individual student cannot summon enough energy to do some rational thinking, nor the student community bestir themselves about their own affairs, we will presently be back where we were some seven years ago. The world is full of axes, but some one must turn the grindstone.

Respectfully yours,

G. McL. PITTS.

Note.—The above does not refer in any way to the subject of Friday's meeting.

MEDICAL SOCIETY PRIZE COMPETITION

By the Rules of the Competition
All Papers Are Subject to Call After Dec. 1st.

The attention of the undergraduates of the Faculty of Medicine is called to the fact that the date set for the completion of papers for the prize competition of papers for the prize competition is little over a month distant. By the rules of the competition all papers are subject to call after December 1. ## GRADUATE OF '60 HAS PASSED AWAY

Dr. Louis Duhamel Was Registrar of the County of Ottawa.

One of the oldest and most prominent citizens of Hull, Que., Dr. Louis Duhamel, Med. '60, is dead. After a long illness of some months he died at his residence, 179 Main street, Hull, on Wednesday afternoon.

The deceased gentleman attained the ripe old age of 81 years and had an interesting career. He was a brother of the late Archbishop Duhamel, was an ex-member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, and for many years registrar of Ottawa County.

He was born in Contrecoeur, Que., in 1835, and with his parents he came to Ottawa as a child. His primary education was conducted in the Ottawa University, and he later finished at McGill University with honors.

After his graduation he practised medicine in Ottawa and Pembroke for a number of years, and also lived in Gracefield. While there he was elected to the Quebec Legislative Assembly for Wright County.

Afterwards he moved to Hull, engaging in the drug business until 1866, when he relinquished his seat in Quebec to accept the magistracy of his county, which position he held until his death.

He is survived by a family of three sons—Thomas, of Seattle; Joseph, of Uta, and Ernest, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; and one daughter, Mrs. Ladislav De Jurkowski, of Hull.

HARRIERS HAVE GOOD WORKOUT NEAR STADIUM

Stiff Pace Set in Second Practice of the Season Yesterday.

NEW MEN ARE NEEDED

McLeod and Derrick, Newcomers, Show Form in Running Togs.

The harriers had another good workout yesterday afternoon at 5.30. Starting from the Stadium, the runners struck across Fletcher's Field to the Cote St. Catherine road, which was followed as far as the fountain. On the way out a fairly easy pace was maintained, but after circling the fountain, Gerrie, Macklin and Antiff set out on a stiff pace, which was kept up right to the entrance to the Stadium. McLeod and Derrick made their first appearance of the year, and although not in the best of condition, showed that with a little practice they will undoubtedly give the old-timers a hard run for it. The former had previous experience last year, and has a nice easy stride. Derrick is new to the game, but stuck with the bunch over most of the distance.

The prospects for the inter-faculty run are becoming brighter every day. All that is necessary to make it a complete success is that the fellows should get down to work at once so as to be in the best possible condition. Any one who has ever done any running in the past or who would like to get into a game where he will have good exercise as well as a chance to help his faculty along, is urged to turn out at the next run, which will be held at the same hour on Monday.

Things Theatrical

HIS MAJESTY'S.

Miss Olive Templeton, the young leading lady engaged by Mr. George Driscoll for his stock company, re-opening at His Majesty's on Monday, has had several years of valuable experience. Starting with the Castle Square Co. in Boston and remaining with that organization for over a year, Miss Templeton went then to New York to seek broader fields for her talent and was engaged by Richard Bennett to create the principal role in "Damaged Goods," which part she played with Mr. Bennett for forty-eight weeks, after which she joined Mr. Edwin Arden as his leading woman. Remaining with Mr. Arden for over a season, Miss Templeton took up the motion picture field. Her last work was as leading lady with Lawrence D'Orsay, and from that engagement she joined Mr. Driscoll. Miss Templeton is but twenty-five years of age, and has everything in her favor to make her a big favorite with Mr. Driscoll's company.

AT THE IMPERIAL.

Few emotional actresses can be classed with Emily Stevens, who will first delight Montreal audiences during the first half of the week at the Imperial, when she appears in the new Metro production, "Cora." For power of pure dramatic expression in the delineation of the difficult roles in which she has achieved her most notable successes. She comes by her distinctive dramatic talents naturally, however, for she is a niece of Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, and kin to half a score other famous artists of the American stage. Before joining the Metro forces for screen work, she created the stellar roles in several Broadway successes, the most notable of which was "To-day," which had a long run at William A. Brady's playhouse in New York and on the road. Now she is starring in one of the biggest triumphs of the New York season, "The Unchastened Woman."

AT THE LONDON.

The past performances you or your friends have seen, are certainly the best possible and to keep up that standard the London is showing two masterpieces in production for to-day and to-morrow. One is "The Fair God of Sun Island," in three parts, featuring that magnetic star, Herbert Rawlinson. The other is "A Life at Stake," showing the super-star, J. Warren Kerrigan, the popular idol of the screen. Charlie Chaplin makes his usual bow, while the comedy, "When the Wets Went Dry," completes the bill. Coming Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the superb three reel photoplay, "The Millionaire Paupers." Don't miss H. Watch for the appearance of the four part mutual masterpiece, "The House of Scandals," starring Harold Lockwood and May Allison.

DECEPTIVE APPEARANCES.

Ned—"After you have been here a while, you'll find they fetch nothing."

WITH THE ENGINEERS

Lieut. Heber W. Dawson, Sci. '15, Goes Overseas With Draft.

Lieut. Herbert W. Dawson, Sci. '15, has lately gone overseas in charge of a draft of three officers and twenty from other ranks from the Engineers' Training Depot at Ottawa. This draft will reinforce the Divisional Signal Company at the front.

Lieut. Dawson is a son of Dr. W. Bell Dawson, Ottawa, Sci. '75, and was born in that city in 1892. He attended Trinity College School, Port Hope, before coming to McGill to enter electrical. He was vice-president of his freshman year and figured on the year football and hockey teams. Lieut. D. H. Macfarlane, Sci. '17, also accompanied the draft.

LATE LIEUT. DUGGAN A FINE YACHTSMAN

Also Connected With Dominion Bridge Company in European Munition Work.

Lieut. Herrick Stevenson Duggan, Sci. '12, whose death in action while fighting with the Royal Engineers, was announced a few days ago, was in the employ of the Dominion Bridge Company in Toronto, and when the war broke out he went over to England for the purpose of finding out whether or not there was an opening for the company to manufacture munitions of war. When he arrived on the other side he became ambitious to serve himself, and he lost no time in applying for a commission in the Royal Engineers.

Late in September he wrote that the work he was then engaged in consisted chiefly in the laying and repairing of telegraphic and telephonic communications. He described how the nights selected for their operations were usually dark as possible. They crept forward to their posts, but suddenly great star-bombs would illuminate the darkened sky, and the men would hurriedly throw themselves on their faces. Then they would be subjected to a terrific fire from machine guns and rifles. Some of them would be wiped out, but the other would go on with their work.

The late Lieut. Duggan, like his father, who always successfully defended the Seewanaak cup, was a skillful yachtsman. He was a grand-son of the late Sergt. John Duggan, of Toronto, and a grand-nephew of the late Judge Duggan, also of this city.

When Mr. Norman Gooderham won the Great Lakes championship with the Patricia, G. Herrick Duggan and the late lieutenant were in Chicago at the time, and when the Toronto yacht was beaten in the first race, young Duggan gave him the greatest encouragement and assistance.

"Cap," under which name he is better known about college, was a former C.O.T.C. man. He went over to England with H. H. Hemming, Arts '14, and J. A. Lynch, Sci. '14, both of whom obtained lieutenant's commissions in the Royal Field Artillery, B.E.F.

William C. Ross, of Arts '15, has joined up as a lieutenant in the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders, who are now located at Vancouver. His brother "Herb," of Arts '16, McGill's heavyweight boxer of the 1913-14 season, is at present a lieutenant in the 50th Regiment, Gordon Highlanders. He has hopes of being transferred to one of the Overseas Battalions as soon as another is formed at Vancouver.

The 72nd Highlanders will in all probability spend a few days in Montreal while on their way to England this winter.

4TH COMPANY ARE INVITED TO SEE GAME

Universities Unit Will Witness Montreal vs. Argonauts Struggle at M.A.A.A.

PRACTICE FRENCH ATTACK

Learn to Charge Real Trenches and Entanglements Behind the Stadium.

The Fourth Universities Company had a very busy day yesterday in spite of the fact that about half of the men were inoculated for the first, second or third time. Early in the day a muster parade was held to check equipment and see that all were correctly clothed in their own outfits. The men were then dismissed and inoculated by the doctor against typhoid.

After dinner the company was marched up to behind the Stadium to the trenches that were built last summer by the Auxiliary Battalion. Here the unit was taken in charge by Lieut. R. Traquair, of the 5th Royal Highlanders, who gave the men very careful and thorough instruction in the manner in which a platoon assault a trench, and demolishes the barbed-wire entanglements. The instructor divided the unit into four sections, and showed what their separate duties were in an attack. The duty of the first section was to break through and demolish the barbed wire to the best of their ability. Then the second section should dash through the gap, and, leaping the first trench where section one is fighting, they should occupy the communication trench to the rear. Following quickly on the heels of these men comes the third section, which jumps down into the trench and proceeds to fight along it, half the strength going each way. The fourth section now comes up with reserve ammunition, entrenching tools and sand bags, and proceeds to reverse the front of the captured trench, acting as a body of pioneers. Mr. Traquair pointed out that if a counter attack could be kept off for half an hour, the reversal of the trench would prove so effective that there would be little likelihood of the enemy recapturing the trench after that time had elapsed.

The Fourth Company now proceeded to practise bomb throwing with brick bats, and bombed one trench from another. Their aim in throwing improved so rapidly that with little practice the men would be able to throw a bomb a hundred feet into a four foot circle.

On Thursday evening the company had a march-out and manoeuvres, which consisted in night operations against the Westmount Rifles on the Westmount Golf Links. The theory of the attack was that the Universities formed an outpost, which was attacked from the south by the Rifles. The attackers approached very quietly and suddenly charged, driving in the sentries and left picket. A counter-attack was under way when the bugle sounded the fall in, signifying that time was up, with the result that no decision was arrived at. Both sides showed great skill at approaching noiselessly, which greatly increased the realistic affect produced by the ten rounds of blank ammunition per man that were expended during the heat of the fray. The judge of the evening's work was Major W. G. Peterson, of the 73rd Highlanders, who kindly volunteered his services to the participating units as umpire for the night's manoeuvres.

Every one will be pleased to hear that Pte. J. H. Hay, who came all the way from Nome, Alaska, to enlist, is now in the King's service. It will be remembered that on first tests his eyesight was found deficient, and it was decided to give him his transportation back to his home. However, upon examination before a board of doctors it was decided that he would be passed, so his name appears in to-day's list of those lately taken on strength.

Nothing definite has as yet been heard from headquarters in regard to the formation of a fifth universities company. However, a few men that are overstrength in the Fourth Company are waiting over for this company. A Montreal daily quotes Gen. Wilson as authority for the statement that a fifth company will be formed, but Capt. Love, who is in charge of the organization of these units, has

You never saw an animal with cotton or flax growing on it; therefore, isn't it foolish for a human being to wear cotton or linen next the skin as a protection against cold?
Nature supplies this wool covering because it is the best protection against varying atmospheric condition.
Wool is a strong non-conductor of cold and heat, and absorbs perspiration evenly and rapidly.

LAW STUDENTS ENLIST

Quebec Bar Report Shows Many Young Lawyers at the Front.

The annual report of Victor Martineau, secretary-treasurer of the General Council of the Bar of the Province of Quebec, just issued, refers to the fact that a large number of law students have enlisted for active service and many of them are now at the front.

The council obtained from the Legislature at the last session power to make special provision for such students, and some system is now being worked out which will in all probability allow the students to get credit in their course for the time spent in active service.

not yet received any official information in regard to the application filed some time ago for permission to form another universities company.

To-day the Fourth Universities Company will be given a lecture by Lieut. J. S. L. Brunton, C.R.E., who is on the instructional cadre of the 4th division. The lecture will be given from 9 to 10 this morning on the "Practical Construction of Trenches on the Battlefield." Mr. Brunton graduated from McGill in the class of 1910, and a short time ago lost his brother, Lieut. E. H. P. Brunton, who was killed in Flanders when he was acting as medical officer of the 4th Grenadier Guards.

It is also very probable that Lieut. Keene, who has lately returned from the front, will give a lecture on machine guns on active service. Mr. Keene has had much experience with this type of armament in the trenches, so that this talk promises to be of exceptional interest, and will last from 11 to 12 in the morning.

To-day promises to be very interesting to the men of the company, for in addition to these lectures, the Fourth Universities unit is invited to the football match this afternoon. The president of the Montreal Football Club has invited every member of the unit to see the game at 2.45 between Montreal and the Argonauts, which is to take place on the M.A.A.A. grounds, and will be one of the best exhibitions of football yet this season.

DOCTOR VS. LAWYER.

"Not long ago," says a Washington lawyer, "I attended a trial in Baltimore, during the course of which there was summoned as witness a youthful physician."

"It was natural, of course, that counsel for the other side should, in cross-examination, seize the occasion to utter certain sarcastic remarks, touching the knowledge and skill of so young a doctor."

"Are you," demanded the lawyer, "entirely familiar with the symptoms of concussion of the brain?"

"Yes, sir."
"Then," continued the lawyer, "I should like to ask your opinion of a hypothetical case. Were my learned friend, Mr. Read, and myself to hang our heads together, should we get concussion of the brain?"
"Mr. Reed might," smiled the youthful physician.

Think for a moment of their joy on receiving a parcel from home. The unfamiliar surroundings of many a far-distant Canadian lad will be brightened when he gets his "something from the boys."

We are making a special feature of Soldiers' Gifts—and a cordial invitation is given to visit our Military Department.

Birks will accept the responsibility of Marine War Risks on all purchases for soldiers in Overseas Contingents, and will guarantee the parcel against loss or breakage.

This Birks Guarantee, we feel sure, will influence many to send their usual Christmas gifts to friends now on Active Service.

All gifts for Canadian Contingents, whether in England or France, should be purchased at once.

We will, upon request, be glad to mail illustrations and full particulars to out-of-town residents.

MAY PLAY BIG GAME AGAINST 34TH BATTERY

Sportsman's Unit Would Like to Meet Picked McGill Team.

HAVE GOOD LINE-UP

Several Men of Senior Calibre Are Available at Old McGill.

There is a possibility of a game being staged shortly between a team of McGill men of senior calibre and a team representing the 34th Battery of Field Artillery, now stationed at Barrfield Camp, Kingston. Overtures have been made by the Battery with this end in view, and there is hope that a game may be arranged at Montreal between the two teams.

The 34th Battery team, which has cleaned up everything in sight around Kingston, includes in its make-up such men as Jack Williams, one of the brainiest of Canadian football generals, whose work with the Ottawas in the Big Four in past seasons is so well known; and Gamey Stratton, the tricky University of Toronto quarterback. Both hold commissions in the overseas forces at Kingston, and have been playing constantly since entering camp on Barrfield Heights. In addition there are in the 34th, which is largely a sportsman's battery, recruited in Toronto, many athletes whose names are more familiar in connection with other branches of sport other than football, but who have donned the moleskins and are making a good showing. Among these is Bob Dibble, the crack oarsman of the Don Rowing Club, Toronto, whose line-plunging is said to be a feature of the games in which the 34th participates. He has weight and uses it to advantage. There are others with the Battery who possess considerable football ability.

With a selection being made from the players who have been taking part in the inter-class and inter-faculty games, McGill would be able to gather together a formidable fourteen to meet the soldiers. Most of the team would, of course, be drawn from the Science representatives who have shown the best of form in recent games. George Willisroft, the star boomer of last year's intermediates, would probably be unable to play, as the injury to his knee received while with the M.A.A.A. team is still bothering him. Herb Woolatt, who has been playing quarter for the Science seniors and whose gift-edged work was a feature of the final U. of T.-McGill clash last session, could be counted upon, as well as Jackie Fawcett, who is with M.A.A.A. this season. "Pep" Paisley, too, might be induced to turn out. On the line, such stalwarts as Joe Donnelly, Bill Hughes, Art Brown, George Trapp, Al Greenwood and "Venus" Lemay would be available. It is safe betting that with these stars in line McGill would give the soldiers a good run for their money.

HARVARD WILL NOW NUMBER PLAYERS

Cambridge, Mass. — After several years of holding out against the practice of numbering her football players, Harvard is about to capitulate, according to reports about the campus today. The crimson, it was said, has acceded to Princeton's request that the players wear numbers when the two teams clash in Palmer Stadium, November 6.

Dartmouth is the only college that has a one-armed player on its football team. Guy Neely, whose right arm is cut off about the elbow, is playing guard on the freshmen eleven, and coaches prophesy that he will be a varsity regular next season. Some years ago McGill had a one-armed football player at outside wing. His name was Martin. Martin's arm was cut off just below the elbow, but that did not prevent him from being a star tackle.

Owing to the fact that only enough men to make up one eleven reported for the Houghton cup series, the Crimson authorities have cancelled the series for this fall.

COMPULSORY ATHLETICS FOR FRESHMEN

Each Student is Numbered And Attendance Will be Kept.

RULE IN FORCE TUESDAY

Must Attend Gym. Until Special Clubs Begin Work.

The University regulations regarding compulsory physical education for all first-year students are to be enforced from Tuesday next, November 2nd. All first-year students are to put in two hours per week in some form of physical exercise. Those men who are exempt from the C.O.T.C. are exempt from any further requirements in the gymnasium or in athletics of any kind. Students who have not joined the C.O.T.C., but who have elected to take any other form of activity, are responsible for two hours per week, commencing next Tuesday. Those who have chosen basketball, boxing, wrestling or fencing are to report at the regular gymnasium class periods for attendance, where their special activities will be allotted. Students choosing swimming may report at any of the gymnasium class hours or on Mondays and Wednesdays at 5.30 at the Y.M.C.A. tank, on Drummond street. Swimmers reporting on Mondays or Wednesdays must see that their attendance is recorded by the locker room clerk at the Y.M.C.A. Those choosing boxing, wrestling or fencing must report at the gymnasium classes until their activities commence, when special arrangements will be made for their accommodation. Special instructions will be issued to-morrow for those men who have chosen Rugby football and hockey.

Students must familiarize themselves with the numbers that have been allotted to them, as it is on these numbers that their attendances will be checked. The gymnasium periods are Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.15 p.m., at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, Drummond street.

TENNIS MATCH

Game With Central Y. M. C. A. To-day.

A practice match with the Central Y.M.C.A. Tennis Club has been arranged for this afternoon. Ross Cleveland, captain of last year's intercollegiate champions, is playing for the visitors. If the rest of the Y.M.C.A. team is of the same calibre, McGill's chances do not look too rosy. It is to be hoped, however, that this match will help to form a nucleus for a good team.

The following men are requested to be at the McGill courts promptly at 2 o'clock: Harshaw, Quinn, Branch, Parkins, T. C. Thompson and G. D. Thompson.

INTERFACULTY GAME.

Medicine '18 and Arts '18, champions of their respective faculties will play the semi-final this morning at the Stadium, at 10.30 o'clock. The winners of this game will meet Science '16 for the College championship.

The crushing defeat of the University of Michigan eleven by the Michigan Aggies surprised the most pessimistic Ann Arbor partisans, and indicated the Yost men must improve greatly to make a creditable showing against Pennsylvania, Cornell and Syracuse.

It is stated that Columbia alumni have offered to donate $100,000 for the erection of a stadium at South field.

There is only one new man in the Penn State line-up this fall. All the others were either regulars or first substitutes on the 1914 varsity.

JUNIORS ARE OVERWHELMED BY SCIENCE '16

Trick Plays and Speed of the Seniors Feature of the Game.

PEP. PAISLEY STARRED

Shared Honors of Match With George Willisroft of Seniors.

Completely smothering their opponents with their assortment of plays, the Science '16 football team found little trouble in defeating Science '17 in a scheduled inter-class rugby match yesterday afternoon at the Stadium by a score of 42 to 0. At no stage of the game were the losers at all formidable, the outstanding work of "Pep" Paisley and Willisroft detracting from whatever chance the juniors had of winning. The senior combination played like a machine, and showed that they were easily the superiors of their younger opponents. Undoubtedly the work of Paisley and Willisroft were the main factors in their victory, but the juniors were thought to have an excellent chance of winning through the fact that Lemay, the star plunger of the McGill team of 1913, was on their line-up. The latter, however, put up a sorrowful exhibition; his work did not compare with that when he was a member of the red and white aggregation. Lemay never got away for a big run, he being down in his paths every time he started to run with the pigskin.

For the juniors, Allan Clarke did great work. The juniors scored no less than seven touchdowns during the game, and although the majority of converts looked easy, "Herbie" Woolatt was only successful in kicking two over the posts. The work of the latter was somewhat disappointing, too, it looking as if the position of quarterback was out of his range. Trapp showed up well for the '17 team, as did Wilson and Clarke, but the others failed to show much class. Eric Pope did not seem to know what to do with the ball every time he got it, and this afforded the seniors a number of opportunities of getting away for big gains.

It was mainly through the poor work of the juniors' back division that the seniors succeeded in amassing such a big total, they fumbling repeatedly when near their own line. The catching of Paisley and Willisroft, on the other hand, was of the gift-edged variety; these backs kicking and receiving the leather with ease. The various trick plays of the losing combination very seldom netted them any big gains, although at times they would pull off something that surprised their opponents.

The seniors lost the toss, and Rounthwaite kicked off to Lemay, who returned it to centre. '17 received on a fumble, and on the first down Lemay tried to go through, but was easily blocked. Lemay punted poorly on the third down, Woolatt receiving and going through for ten yards. "Pep" kicked to Lemay, who fumbled, Roseborough falling on it on the juniors' 30-yard line. Willisroft then kicked to Hertz, who was downed on his 15-yard line. Seventeen, however, again failed to show anything, losing the ball for offside interference. '16 tried to gain yards on their first two downs, but the '17 line held fast, and Paisley was forced to kick on the last down. "Pep" showed his old-time form by kicking into touch for a rouge.

Woolatt fumbled Pope's kick, and Lemay fell on it. The latter, however, made the same mistake a moment later, with the result that the seniors received the ball on the juniors' 10-yard line. The seniors then showed an excellent bunch of trick plays, Paisley going through first for five yards, and then Roseborough for a touch, which Woolatt failed to convert.

Play went up and down the field, with the seniors having much the better of the argument. Willisroft and Paisley always outdistanced Wilson and Lemay in the punting duels, with the result that the ball went slowly down the field again. Finally Lemay punted to Willisroft, the latter running back for a little distance and then returning to Wilson, who was downed for another point. The first quarter ended shortly after with the score standing 7 to 0 for Science '16.

Juniors Outplayed.

With the ball on their 50-yard line, '17 were over-anxious, and as a result suffered from offside, the seniors being given possession of the leather. Woolatt, however, spoiled his team's chances when he fumbled, Trapp falling on the pigskin. Wilson then took advantage of the opportunity to send the ball down the field, he punting to Willisroft. '17 again lost ten yards on offside interference, and on the first down Paisley kicked to Wilson, who fumbled on his line, Rounthwaite jumping on the ball and going over for a touch. Woolatt again missed an easy convert.

The seniors now began to increase their score by leaps and bounds, the '17 players being completely bewildered by the all-round work of their opponents. Lemay kicked to Paisley, who was downed on '17's 10-yard line. Wilson kicked it back to centre on the first down, and Willisroft returned to Hertz, who again fumbled. On the first down, "Pep" Paisley kicked for another point.

Lemay kicked to Paisley, who returned a long punt to Hertz. The latter caught the ball about fifteen yards behind his own line, and tried to kick it out, but his try was poor, and MacLachlan received the ball, scoring another touch. This one was converted by Woolatt.

Again the juniors tried to gain some advantage over their opponents, but their efforts always proved unsuccessful. After a series of punting duels between Paisley and Wilson, the former gave the crowd an opportunity of seeing some real football by kicking for another rouge.

The players on the losing outfit did not seem to know how to hold the ball, for they repeatedly dropped when they had fine opportunities of going through on a nice run. Willisroft kicked to Wilson, who returned to Paisley, the latter running through a broken field for 25 yards for a touchdown. Half-time was called shortly after this score, the seniors having an undoubted advantage over their opponents in the first periods. The score stood: Science '16, 25; Science '17, 0.

The Second Half.

Wilson kicked off to Willisroft, who returned the leather to Clark at centre. Lemay gained a couple of yards, but on the second down Wilson kicked to Paisley, who returned. The juniors showed a flash of form, but this was only momentary, Willisroft soon giving the senior players another point by kicking to Wilson for a rouge. A fight nearly ensued between Lemay and Brown, but this was nipped in the bud. '17 made some game efforts to bring ground, and finally succeeded in gaining the leather close to their opponents' territory. Paisley, however, relieved the ball down the field. '17 were now resorting mainly to kicking, and on the first down Wilson punted to Willisroft, who passed to Paisley. The latter went through for a neat gain of ten yards.

Third quarter time was called, with the juniors still blanked, the score standing 26 to 0.

Seniors Score Sixteen.

The last period was a complete rout for the third-year players. At no time did they have the ball anywhere near their opponents' line, while their backs fumbled at precarious times, thus giving the fourth year players numerous opportunities of tallying. '16 failed to gain yards when right near the '17 line, and on the first down Wilson punted to Paisley. The latter kicked to Wilson, who fumbled five yards out, MacLachlan grabbing the ball and going over for another touch. Woolatt again converted.

Wilson kicked off to Willisroft, who returned to centre. Woolatt kicked one on-side, Kelly catching the ball and running over the line for a touch, which, although easy to convert, was missed by Woolatt.

The game was now lagging, and with only a few minutes to play '17 tried their best to at least gain one point. Not only were they unsuccessful in their attempts, but their opponents even succeeded in scoring another touch, which was credited to Sears. The latter ran through a broken field for 40 yards and scored with little difficulty. The game ended a minute later with play at mid-field and the score standing 42 to 0 in favor of Science '16.
